Mr. Klug's Corner

Fall is among us. The trees burst with color, leaves blanket the lawns, and a crispness fills the air. Autumn truly defines what change looks like. For some, change can be difficult, especially when routines bring comfort or when things have been done a certain way for years. For others, change brings excitement: perhaps it's the arrival of a new baby, a new career path, or a move to a new place. Whether we welcome change or prefer things to stay the same, one thing remains certain: God's love for us never changes. A few bible verses that remind us of that:

"Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever." Hebrews 13:8
"The grass withers and the flowers fall, but the word of our God endures forever," Isaiah 40:8

May this season remind us that even as the world around us shifts and transforms, our unchanging God is steadfast in His promises and His love.

Week 9 Parenting Tip: Building Good Study Habits
Parents play an important role in helping children develop routines that lead to success in the classroom. Establishing a consistent time and quiet place for homework or studying can help children stay focused and organized. Encourage your child to tackle challenging assignments first, take short breaks when needed, and review what they learned in school each day.

One of the best things parents can do is show interest without taking over. Ask questions like, "What did you learn today?" or "Can you teach me something you learned in class?" These simple conversations reinforce learning and help children take ownership of their education.

Remember, the goal isn't just to finish homework. It's to help children develop responsibility, independence, and perseverance. These are habits that will serve them well far beyond the classroom!
